

Did you ever ask yourself what (some) linguists do?

Learn more about it in the

Spring Course in Minimalist Syntax

Start: Friday, March 7, 2008, 1 PM, Room 108

Based on David Adger's book Core Syntax, this extracurricular course will run weekly first and include block seminars before the beginning of the Summer Semester. It will give you a solid knowledge of the latest developments in one particular linguistic current, generative grammar. We will be doing more than just "theory," however, and proceed to use the tools of theory to analyze many real life sentences.

To apply, write to Michael Schiffmann, mikschiff@t-online.de